

ABOUT THE AUTHORS

Justin Heimberg first used The Yo Momma Vocabulary Builder as an exercise while teaching a writing workshop in a juvenile detention center in Los Angeles, where his literally captive audience had no choice but to suffer through his humor. Justin is a professional comedy writer who has written movies for most of the major Hollywood studios. He is the author of many books with not so many words (Would You Rather...? series), and has written humor for Esquire, Details, and MAD.

Christopher Schultz has written for The New York Times, the New York Sun, and Spin, among other publications. His fiction has appeared in Esquire, Shenandoah, and on his floor. He is the founder of Start Here Project Development, a consultancy that strengthens the communication of universities, nonprofits, and businesses.

Steve Harwood first started insulting yo momma in college as a way to entertain underprivileged liberal arts students in need of improv comedy. He is a stand-up comedian and screenwriter who is currently very popular in the future

Over 500 words
to help you:

A Classless Education book
"Making learning bearable"

Arrange an Interview

With Highly Experienced Improvisational Authors/Performers

The authors have conducted hundreds of interviews on radio and television. Heimberg and Harwood have ten years of comedic improv and performing experience having performed in venues such as the Upright Citizens Brigade Theater and Los Angeles's famed Improv Olympic.

For more information contact Blake Mease at blake@falls-media.com or (240) 381-6834